

“We would definitely recommend Aero & Marine Tax Professionals to others”

When the owner of a company involved in the real estate business in Mexico needed to purchase a Cessna Citation CJ3 jet, he turned to Aero & Marine Tax Professionals to help him save money on the sales tax.

An executive from the company stated: “If we tried to travel commercially, there were security issues from the standpoint of the potential for violence in Mexico. There was also the aspect that the availability of direct flights was rare which added to the security issues. We were referred to Aero & Marine Tax Professionals by another of their clients that gave them a very good recommendation. We liked that their directions were very clear, especially as to the exact information needed, and what actions we had to do. We would definitely recommend Aero & Marine Tax Professionals to others.”
